RELATIONSHIPS AND SERVICES

What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We offer investment advisory services to clients, including retail investors. Specifically, we provide discretionary portfolio management services through managed accounts to high net worth individuals who are qualified purchasers, as defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended. We invest primarily with a long-only strategy in U.S. real estate investment trust preferred and real estate securities that meet certain asset and dividend coverage criteria. However, we may implement and employ any strategies or techniques and utilize any financial instruments (whether or not described herein) in achieving our investment objectives. While each of our clients will generally follow such strategies, we may tailor your specific advisory services based on your specific investment guidelines and restrictions, as set forth in your investment advisory agreement.

Our portfolio manager reviews your accounts on a regular basis to determine accomplishment of your investment objectives, cash balances available and/or margin debit balances, diversification of your portfolio, and security positions. We also use a third-party accounting group that performs reconciliations daily. Reviews also may be triggered by economic and political events, specific company information, and/or market conditions. While we do not have a minimum account maintenance requirement for managed accounts, we generally do not accept investments of less than $10,000,000.

Additional information about our advisory services is located in Items 4, 8 and 13 of our Firm Brochure.

FEES, COSTS, CONFLICTS, AND STANDARD OF CONDUCT

What fees will I pay?

We charge management fees, which are calculated and accrued monthly based on a percentage of your assets under management. Management fees are generally paid quarterly in arrears and will be prorated for partial periods. This fee arrangement presents certain conflicts of interest. For instance, the more assets you have in your account, the more you will pay us. We therefore have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account in order to increase our fees.

You will generally be responsible for all expenses incurred in connection with the transactions effected or positions held on behalf of your account pursuant to your investment advisory agreement with us. Such expenses include, without limitation, custodial fees, bank service fees, brokerage commissions, clearing and settlement fees, interest and withholding or transfer taxes incurred in connection with your account’s trading, and our fees as described above.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

Additional information about our fees is located in Item 5 of our Firm Brochure.

❖ Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what that means.

- We manage private funds that are subject to performance-based compensation arrangements. Since such arrangements reward us for such funds' performance, we have an incentive to favor such funds over accounts that only pay fixed asset-based fees (such as the managed accounts we manage). To mitigate this conflict, we follow documented policies and procedures (including with respect to investment allocation) to seek to ensure fair and equitable treatment of all clients over time.
- As noted above, an asset-based fee may incentivize us to encourage you to increase the assets in your account in order to increase our fees.

❖ How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

Additional information about our conflicts of interest is located in Items 6, 10, 11 and 12 of our Firm Brochure.

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals are paid a base salary and a discretionary bonus that is generally based on individual performance and the profit our firm earns from their services. Since our firm's performance is, in part, based on performance-based compensation received from the private funds we manage, we are subject to the conflict of interest described above.
